As a highly respected journal with an international readership, Immunoematology, Journal of Blood Group Serology and Molecular Genetics is subscription-based and peer-reviewed. It brings together research and clinical practice from well-known experts in the field of blood group serology and molecular immunogenetics.

Immunoematology, Journal of Blood Group Serology and Molecular Genetics is published four times a year by American National Red Cross. The journal publishes case reports, original articles, new blood group allele reports, and review articles covering the spectrum of clinical and laboratory practice and research in the field of laboratory medicine.

Peer Review Process

Manuscripts submitted for publication in Immunoematology, Journal of Blood Group Serology and Molecular Genetics are peer reviewed by selected experts in the medical and technical field of transfusion medicine and/or immunoematology. Each peer reviewer assesses the manuscript for the novelty of the information, the quality and completeness of the provided scientific and clinical data, the quality and appropriateness of the tables and figures, the overall clarity of presentation of the information, and the interest of this topic to the readers of this journal. In addition, each reviewer determines if additional statistical review is needed and if the references are current and appropriate.
